CHURCH OF THE ANNUNCIATION

The Class of '52

On June thirteenth, 1952, another senior class will take its place among the many which have been graduated from Saint Mary's High School. For us, the seniors, graduation is more than a ceremony, because it marks a point in our lives from which we may review the past and look into the future. Our four years of high school have been profitable, and in retrospect, we can see the personalities and events which have helped us to face what lies ahead.

When we entered Saint Mary's as freshmen, we were unsure of ourselves, and the condescending stares of upper classmen made us somewhat apprehensive. We were hopeful, however, for we could see the spirit of friendliness that prevailed at Saint Mary's. The rigors of initiation were forgotten when the seniors honored us with the freshmen reception, "Out of the Cradle." Very soon, other classes had a great regard for our class, for from the beginning we showed our willingness and enthusiasm to support whole-heartedly every school function—whether athletic or social. Even in the first year our class boasted varsity football players, as well as talented artists and a representative number of honor students. It was in our first year, too, that we became acquainted with Sister M. Joan, O.P., who was our class teacher for three years, and whose foresight and guidance were to a great extent responsible for our success as a class.

In our sophomore year, we not only supported school activities, but sponsored a few ourselves. Our first dance, "Shenanigans," had an Irish theme, and even the most unpronounceable Latin name had a Gaelic flavor when the decorating committee added "O" or a "Mac" on each nameplate. In the Spring we published the sophomore Kettle. This was a significant event, for it showed the presence of potential journalists among our classmates.

In an unbelievably short time, we were juniors and upperclassmen. We plunged with vigor into the host of activities that were sponsored, for the most part, in honor of the seniors. A rainy Ascension Thursday did not dampen our spirits as we played the role of hosts at the junior-senior picnic. We chose a regal theme, "Royal Fantasy," for the dance we gave to benefit Father Hofstee's leper colony at Tala. The Junior-Senior Prom held at the Officer's Club was the occasion of initiating a new custom, that of giving each senior a bid to the dance. The romantic aura of prom night passed quickly as we faced the harsh reality of meeting the deadline for the Junior Kettle. By this time our potential journalists had become experienced and efficient, and the publication of Junior Kettle brought the year to a close.

In September 1951 we, as seniors assumed the responsible positions of the school. The cooperation which we had cultivated as lower classmen proved an asset to us as leaders of student government. It was during our senior year that the authority of the executive council was strengthened and exercised, especially in the capacity of meting out punishments on the recommendations of the proctors, to students who had violated student body regulations. Well-planned student body meetings produced several accomplishments, notably the resolution to honor the memory of Monsignor McGough by erecting a memorial in the church, and secondly the changing of the name of the yearbook "Green and White" back to its original title of "Cauldron." It was this year also that a long-awaited project was accomplished, namely, the purchasing of interclass athletic trophies, and the scheduling of interclass games. We made an especially fervent retreat under the direction of Father Leach. The culmination of our enthusiasm is the publication of the 1952 Cauldron. Every effort has been made to make this first edition of the new Cauldron one to remember. The junior-senior picnic at the Old Hearst Ranch, and the Junior-Senior Prom brought our school days at Saint Mary's to an end.

For the most part we can look back proudly over our four years at Saint Mary's. We owe a debt of gratitude to those who have made our high school days so worthwhile. We appreciate the help of our teachers, the Dominican Sisters, the sacrifices of our parents, and the lessons which our companions have, perhaps unconsciously, taught us. Our four years at Saint Mary's have strengthened us in our resolution to carry Christian principles into all our future undertakings. We leave Saint Mary's with a deep sense of gratitude and a promise on our part to be truly representative of our Church and our School.

For over twenty years Saint Mary's students have been working together to meet deadlines for the Kettle. Members have from year to year handed down a spirit of enthusiasm and cooperation which has made the Kettle one of the school's most cherished traditions.

Page Editors Much of the burden of publishing the Kettle is shared by the page editors who assign articles and assume the responsibility of editing and dummying material for each page.

Typists The backbone of the Kettle is the corps of willing and capable typists whose task it is to decipher the writing of would-be journalists, type stencils at the eleventh hour, and still meet the demands of page editors and mimeographer.

Sports Writers

"Manpower" for the Kettle is amply supplied by feature and sports writers, who, besides handling the masculine point of view in the news and covering the sports field, can, in an emergency, take over the tasks of mimeographer and stencilist.

A circular portrait of a woman, likely a historical figure, wearing a light-colored garment and a dark headscarf. The image is a high-contrast, black and white reproduction, possibly a woodcut or a stylized photograph. The woman is shown from the chest up, facing slightly to the right. She has dark hair and is wearing a light-colored, possibly white, garment with a dark triangular patch on the left side of her chest. The background is dark and indistinct. The entire portrait is enclosed within a circular frame.

Cauldron

To the senior class of 1952 belongs the honor of giving the title of Cauldron to the Saint Mary's yearbook, which for a long time has been known as The Green and the Gold. Conscious of the high standards of former Cauldrons, the members of the staff have endeavored to make this edition a book to be enjoyed in the present and reviewed with pleasure in the future. With this aim in mind, they have tried to capture a few of the joyful events and happy as-

Crowning Our Lady "Queen of the May."

Choral

From the High Mass offered in honor of the Holy Ghost in September, to graduation exercises in early summer, singing plays an important part in the life of each St. Mary student. In November, the student body sang a Requiem Mass for the first Anniversary of Monsignor McGough's death. Each year in December the senior class presents the Christmas Mimes--tableaux of the Nativity which are accompanied by chants and carols. Singing for Stations of the Cross, High Masses for the feast of Saint Thomas Aquinas and the feast of the Annunciation marks the special occasions of the second semester. The May Crowning and Confirmation precede graduation which for the seniors at least overshadows all other occasions. After many weeks of practice the student body is ready to close another year by singing for graduation Mass and Benediction.

ACTIVITIES

Lighter Moments

As every Saint Mary's student knows, a school dance is more than a social function. It is an integral part of school life. For each dance involves responsibility on the part of the committee chairman, cooperation on the part of committed members, and generosity from all. For over eight years the Mission Committee and the sophomore, junior, and senior classes have given dances for the benefit of Father Hofstad, O.P., of Tala Leprosarium of the Philippine Islands. This year, the Cauldron and Kettle staffs combined to sponsor "Arabian Nights," The Senior class, which gives the freshman reception on each year, added to the social calendar by inviting the Alumni to a dance given in their honor. The dance most eagerly awaited is the Junior-Senior Prom, the last dance of the school year.

1. The first thing I noticed when I stepped out of the plane was the cold air. It was a sharp contrast to the warm climate of the tropics. I shivered as I walked down the stairs. The ground was hard and uneven. I had heard that the terrain was difficult, but I didn't realize how much. The air was thick with dust. I had to wear a mask. The people here were different.
They had a different way of life. I was in a new world.

2. The second thing I noticed was the people. They were friendly and helpful. I was welcomed with a warm smile. They showed me the way to the hotel. I was in luck. The hotel was just what I needed. It was clean and comfortable. I was in good luck. I was in a good place. I was in a good time. I was in a good mood. I was in a good world.

3. The third thing I noticed was the food. It was delicious and healthy. I had heard that the food was good, but I didn't realize how good it was. The people here knew how to
